SIMON LAKE the famous inventor discusses the war's greatest problem in his new book

THE SUBMARINE
IN WAR AND PEACE

Packed with information, entertaining and valuable both to the general reader and to the deep thinker who is especially interested in the scientific study of submarines. The latter will not fail to study this, which is unquestionably one of the most complete books on the subject. It contains many original suggestions that other inventors will prize. It tells what the submarine is; its mechanism and operation; the comedy and tragedy in submarine development; the experience of pioneer inventors; the evolution of the submarine; the use of the submarine in war; the possibility of defeating the submarine; the submarine in time of peace; the destiny of the submarine. There are seventy-one illustrations on all phases and uses of the submarine and a chart. Price $3.00 net.

WAR RESTRICTIONS FOR THE RETAILER

THE war task of the publishing world has been set, the task of curtailment and readjustment, and all publishers seem prepared to face the issue promptly and optimistically. That the curtailment has been less than in many branches of industry is to the advantage of the book-trade and only a reasonable testimony to the importance of books in war time.

And now with September comes the announcement of the retailers special war problem. Christmas gift selling must be put on a different basis from formerly, in face of the fact that the December business of bookstores has been from 20% to 40% of an entire year's sales. The bookseller in common with other merchants must restrict his gift selling as largely as possible to useful items. He must agree not to increase his number of salesmen in December nor the expense of his delivery service. Every effort must be made to make it a safe and sensible Christmas, and to avoid congestion of local and national delivery systems by urging early shopping and early sending.

The instructions from the National Council of Defense are printed on another page and, as fuller details are announced from Washington, the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY will promptly print in full.

However great the value of Christmas remembrances and messages in keeping up the spirit and optimism of the people at home and of those in the scattered places of new duties, it is unquestionable that the handling of Christmas gifts should not be allowed to put its extra burden on transportation and its special demands on labor. Books are among the most practical of gifts for war time giving. They supply ideas for a war of ideas, inspiration for those who fight and labor, comfort for those who wait, and diversion for those who need relaxation from the strain. But the bookseller will be a poorer merchant than we think him if he cannot so order his business in the next four months as to get good totals from his sales and, at the same time, turn the public's buying toward the most worth while books and spread this buying over a longer period of time.

In this effort for readjustment, the bookstore will be working in common cause with the other retail stores and the book departments will be paralleling the efforts of the other sections of the store. Books, moreover, will continue to occupy a preferred position in war time merchandise. From trench, from shop, from hospital and from camp has gone up the call for books and more books; from factory, from office, from government bureau and from farm has come the call for the books that are the "tools of trade" and short-cuts to efficiency.

Surely this is a time when the bookseller is put on his mettle and is given opportunity to show that his store has a solid place in the country's business and the community's progress and is not merely a place for a once-a-year feverish activity.

WE print elsewhere a solution proposed for certain difficulties in international copyright which have been brought about under war conditions, and more particularly as a result of the embargo on the importation of books into Great Britain. This proposed solution is one of the several results of Major George Haven Putnam's unofficial mission to the mother country, and it is most gratifying that the Major's mission thus receives official recognition and that his proposals are likely to receive official confirmation. The plan that is now under consideration between the British Foreign Office and our own Department of State gives promise of fairly meeting the difficulties in question. Authors, publishers and booksellers should feel especial pride in, and should render especial thanks to their colleague in these several callings for his specific and successful work in their behalf, while the country at large is not less indebted to him for the broader work which he has done in confirming and heartening close comradeship between "kin across sea."

The British Foreign Office and our own Department of State are practically in agreement on a plan which is much superior to the second alternative submitted, of enlarging the 14 day limit allowed for publication in England provided we extend our 60 day limit for publication and manufacture to at least six months. The plan favored, which should be acceptable to all friends of copyright, follows a precedent already established in regard to enemy copyrights and would provide mutually that books published in either country should be entitled to copyright in the other if published therein under the requirements of the respective laws within six months, or such longer period as may be agreed upon after the termination of the war. It is proposed that American registration shall meantime be had thru the American Embassy in London or the American consulates and that the deposit of required copies shall be postponed until after the copyright in the other country shall have been secured by actual publication. This reciprocal arrangement is to be retroactive as far as possible for works which have forfeited or failed to secure copyright because of war conditions, subject to equitable consideration of interests meantime honestly established in such uncopyrighted works. No plan could be simpler or, in our judgment, be entitled to more general acceptance.

The American Publishers' Copyright League, as doubtless other interested bodies, should be prompt to indorse this plan for it solves, in the simplest and most effective way, most of the knotty questions which have been difficult of solution. The only question not clear is whether some sort of provisional publication may be made, with or without authorization, pending the full securing of the copyright. The difficulty indicated will probably be met by going forward with copyrighting in the normal way except where war conditions make this impracticable. Whether the plan can be made effective by presidential proclamation, under the extensive war powers granted to the Executive, or will require congressional legislation, is yet to be ascertained; but in the latter case there should be no delay and no opposition in obtaining the necessary action. The American friends of Copyright will join with the British authority in the earnest hope that these concessions and this rapprochement may be the precursor of further steps forward which will put our own international copyright relations on a firmer and sounder basis and permit us to join the family of nations.

MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION FAVORS TRADE ACCEPTANCE

The support which the National Association of Manufacturers has given to Trade Acceptance has been one of the most important factors in the rapidly increasing use of acceptances among business men generally thruout the country, says the Trade Acceptance Journal. After a careful study of the Trade Acceptance by a committee from the association, and the sending out of a questionnaire on the subject to more than 4000 manufacturers, the committee has recommended the unqualified endorsement of acceptances as a great step in advance in assisting the credit structure of the country to function in an efficient manner.

A report has been issued by the committee after studying answers received from more than 1000 manufacturers, which says, in part:

"From the replies received it is very evident that the subject of Trade Acceptances is a very live topic of interest among manufacturers in general. The returns thus far received show that the Trade Acceptance is being used and apparently very successfully in numerous lines of trade, such as hardware, machinery, electrical goods, agricultural machinery, vehicles, building materials, house furnishings, furniture, dry goods, wearing apparel, jewelry, musical instruments, paper and stationery, sporting goods, food products, drugs and chemical, leather goods, etc., etc. On the basis of these returns the committee feels that it can strongly recommended to manufacturers generally who now sell on the open book account system, not only a close study of, but the actual adoption of the Trade Acceptance as a means of closing open book accounts receivable.

The committee desires to bring particularly to your attention the fact that, notwithstanding the sound business value of the Trade Acceptance, perhaps the most important value the acceptance has today is its value as a war emergency measure to enable American credit resources to be mobilized to meet the extraordinary strain which the American financial situation is being subjected to by the war. Should the business man of the country have his own money outstanding, unusuable and tied up when it might be made promptly available in cash by the use of the Trade Acceptance—an instrument welcomed by the bank for discount and by the Federal Reserve Bank for re-discount—and still leaving him with the ability to negotiate the sale of his own single name paper if required. It is becoming more recognized that, if properly used, the Trade Acceptance will prove a powerful factor in stabilizing the finances of our industrial organizations during the period of reorganization and reconstruction after the war, when every means within our power must be used to maintain our credits and to strengthen the financial resources for our business."

THE COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE DEFINES ITS ATTITUDE ON CHRISTMAS GIVING

All retail merchants have been alert and anxious for a complete defining of the attitude of Washington on Christmas giving. The statement now received and printed below comes after many weeks of consultation and discussion.

The first intimation that the country had of the plans of the Council of National Defense came with a bulletin dated May 8, 1918, which called for a concerted effort thruout the country for thrift and economy.

The National Council passed this word to the State Council urging them to obtain wide publicity for this propaganda of retrenchment.

Encouraged by the public's acceptance of this announcement the Council proceeded in June to the agitation for "No Christmas Presents." In a statement issued on June 24th they stated "that Christmas giving which involves the purchase of gifts should be discouraged as relieving to that extent the present heavy burden placed upon labor, transportation, and other resources of the nation, and also as being in harmony with the previous announcements of the Council." At the time of this announcement the State Councils were instructed to notify manufacturers and retailers of the Government's policy in order that they might plan their Christmas stocks, knowing that a "No Christmas Presents" campaign would be launched in September.

The Council then began to receive an avalanche of protests from every part of the country together with many careful discussions of the situation from business organizations and associations of manufacturers. The protestants have not wished to shirk their share in the hardships of necessary business disturbance but have pointed out the peculiar problems involved in a country-wide signing of no gift pledges.

Thru the offices of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States a final conference was arranged between merchants and the National Council which has resulted in the following statement:

"The Council of National Defense has heretofore emphasized the necessity of restricting Christmas buying during the coming fall for certain specific reasons, which it has stated. These reasons are, in brief, the necessity for saving labor and material in the manufacture and sale of Christmas gifts and of saving the transportation and delivery facilities necessarily involved in the large volume of Christmas purchases.

"After conference with representatives of leading industries and retail interests concerned, it is found that the manufacture of goods for the coming holiday season has been substantially completed, that the transportation of goods to the point of sale is also largely done and that much of the material used for Christmas purchases, especially in the manufacture of toys, is the waste material derived from prior processes of manufacture.

"The retail interests represented at the conference have agreed not to increase their working forces by reason of the holiday business over the average forces employed by them thruout the year and not to increase the normal working hours of their forces during the Christmas season. They have also agreed to use their utmost efforts to confine Christmas giving, except for young children, to useful articles and to spread the period for holiday purchases over the months of October, November and December.

"In order to relieve the transportation facilities of the country from a congestion in the latter half of December, which would be so hurtful to the interests of the nation that it cannot be permitted, the retail interests represented at this hearing have agreed to co-operate further in the campaign heretofore and now being carried on under the auspices of the War Industries Board to restrict deliveries and to induce customers to carry their packages wherever possible.

"The retail interests to which reference has been made have further agreed to make an announcement to the above substantial effect in their advertisements commencing in early September and repeating same weekly thereafter. The above suggestions, if faithfully and loyally put into effect thruout the country, will make possible a continuance of the holiday custom without endangering the national interests thereby.

"The Council of National Defense will co-operate in carrying out the suggested measures. It looks to organized business bodies of every nature and thruout the country actively to join in the movement as providing means whereby that co-operation between the government and the people can be had which alone will permit the continuance of holiday business in such form, on such scale and by such methods as are consistent with the national welfare. This announcement is definitely conditioned upon loyal and thoro co-operation in spirit and in letter on the part of sellers and buyers thruout the country."

In view of the facts outlined in this article the Publishers' Weekly

DEPARTMENT OF STATE LETTER TO MAJOR PUTNAM SUGGESTING A SOLUTION TO THE INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT PROBLEM

The following letter from the Department of State to Major Putnam speaks for itself:—

Department of State, Washington,
August 26, 1918.

Mr. George Haven Putnam,
Sir:

In the absence of Mr. Polk, I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter to him of August 7, 1918, in regard to the difficulties existing under war conditions in obtaining copyright in the United States for the works of British authors and copyright in the British dominions for the published works of American authors.

In this relation the Department advises you of the receipt of a note, No. 871, of August 6, 1918, from the British Charge d'Affaires ad interim on this subject. The note states that His Majesty's Government, while hoping that it may eventually be found possible to place the copyright relations between the United States and the British dominions upon a more satisfactory and permanent basis, are of the opinion that the present difficulties would be largely met if agreement could be obtained to the following proposal:

The British Government to undertake to issue an Order in Council extending the protection of the British Copyright Act to all works first published in the United States which have complied with the conditions and formalities prescribed by the United States Copyright Law, including formal registration, provided that publication, which shall not be colorable, but intended to satisfy the reasonable requirements of the public, is made in the Dominion to which the Act extends not later than six months (or such longer period as may be agreed upon) after the termination of the war, and provided also that the requirements of Section 15 of the Act as to the delivery of books to libraries shall apply to such works upon publication in the United Kingdom; the United States Government to undertake to confer the protection of the United States Copyright Law upon all works first published in the British dominions to which the Act extends, on condition that a claim for copyright protection is lodged with the American Embassy in London or with an American consulate in the said dominions and that the requirements of the United States Copyright Law as to registration, and manufacture within the limits of the United States where necessary, are fulfilled not later than six months (or any longer agreed period) after the termination of the war.

The above arrangement would be made retrospective if possible and to cover works published in one of the countries since the outbreak of the war which have forfeited copyright in the other country thru failure to comply with the necessary formalities and requirements of law; subject to the necessary safeguards for lawfully acquired interests in the works thus protected.

Should the above suggested arrangement not meet with approval, the British Embassy has been instructed to submit an alternative arrangement whereby His Majesty's Government would undertake to enlarge the period of fourteen days allowed by Section 35 (3) of the Act for simultaneous publication in the Dominions to which the Act extends, provided that the Government of the United States would undertake to extend the period allowed by the United States Copyright Law for the registration, and manufacture within the limits of the United States, of an edition of a book first published abroad in the English language from two months to at least six months.

In conclusion, the Embassy's note suggests that His Majesty's Government would not consider the latter arrangement as satisfactory as the former, since in present circumstances it would only afford amelioration in a very limited degree and, therefore, the hope is expressed that the Government of the United States may consider the former with favor.

This Department has brought the contents of the British Embassy's note to the attention of the Librarian of Congress, for the information and consideration of the Register of Copyrights. It is, therefore, suggested that you may find it of advantage to address that official on the subject.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

ALVEY A. ADEE,
Second Assistant Secretary.

TROW CO. SELLS PLANT

The recent sale of the plant of the Trow Co. marked the end of a printing office and book bindery that was started eighty-five years ago by John F. Trow, who himself passed away in 1886. When the business was begun at 114 Fulton Steet, New York, as West & Trow, the equipment consisted of "two iron presses and a corresponding amount of type." He later introduced power presses, the first being a Tufts press, turned by mule-power, and the second the Adams press. In 1855 he began the operation of a type-setting machine, invented by William Mitchell, and this was said to be the first printing house in the world in which type was regularly set by machinery. In 1847 he began publishing directories, which part of the Trow business was only recently disposed of.

When the employing printers of New York began to meet at the time of the Civil War the house of Trow took a prominent part in the movement to better conditions, John F. Trow presided at the Typothetæ dinner meeting in 1865, and was elected vice-president when the Typothetæ was revived in 1883.

A short time ago the plant was inventoried at one million dollars.

GOVERNMENT RESTRICTIONS ON PERIODICALS, COUNTRY EDITIONS AND MAIL ORDER PUBLICATIONS

The War Industries Board, through its pulp and paper section, Thomas E. Donnelley, chief, has issued regulations for the conservation of print paper used in the country editions of metropolitan dailies, published either weekly, semiweekly, or triweekly, and "mail-order" weeklies, which reduce their tonnage of paper used 15 per cent, as compared with the tonnage used during the six months, January 1 to June 30, inclusive, of the present year. The regulations become effective September 9.

Suggesting the abolishment of a number of practices that under war conditions are considered wasteful and unbusinesslike the pulp and paper section calls on the publishers affected by the new regulations to report on their publications for last year as to total paper tonnage used, quality and weight of paper, size in inches, average number of pages and average number of copies issued.

Text of Regulations

The regulations in full follow:

To publishers of weekly, semiweekly, or triweekly editions of metropolitan papers for country circulation, and for "mail-order" publications:

We are inclosing herewith a copy of the regulations for the weekly, semiweekly, or triweekly editions of metropolitan papers for country circulation, and for mail-order publications.

Will you kindly send us a report for the year July 1, 1917, to June 30, 1918, covering the following:

First. Quality and weight of paper used in your publication.

Second. Size in inches of your publication.

Third. The average number of pages.

Fourth. The average number of copies printed.

Fifth. Total tonnage used during the year.

REGULATIONS FOR COUNTRY EDITIONS OF METROPOLITAN DAILIES AND "MAIL-ORDER" PUBLICATIONS.

TONNAGE ALLOWED

Country editions of metropolitan dailies, published either weekly, semiweekly, or triweekly, and "mail-order" weeklies shall reduce their tonnage of paper used 15 per cent over the tonnage used during the six months January 1, 1918, to June 30, 1918, inclusive, this regulation to become effective September 9, 1918.

Any publisher whose circulation has increased by legitimate methods an unusual amount over the average circulation for the the six months January 1, 1918, to June 30, 1918, may present his case for special consideration.

ADDITIONAL REGULATIONS

Discontinue selling advertising upon a guaranty of circulation requiring a rebate if circulation falls below guaranteed amount.

Because of the absolute necessity of curtailing the use of paper, no new publications may be established during the period of the war unless it can be shown that such publication is an absolute necessity.

SUGGESTIONS

The pulp and paper section does not guarantee to the publisher an adequate supply of paper after the above curtailments is put into effect. The supply of paper depends entirely upon the limitation of coal, supplies, transportation, and labor, and conditions may arise where the demand for war products will require an additional curtailment. If such conditions arise, special consideration will be given to those publishers who have established themselves upon the most economical basis. Certain practices, which under normal conditions might be justifiable, are, under war conditions, considered wasteful and unbusinesslike, and if possible each publisher should attempt to eliminate the following:

(1) Continuing subscriptions after date of expiration, unless subscriptions are renewed and paid for.

(2) Giving free copies—except for actual service rendered; except to camp libraries and huts of organizations recognized by the Government, such as the Y. M. C. A., K. of C., etc.; except to the Library of Congress and other libraries which will agree to bind for permanent keeping; except to Government departmental libraries which use said papers in their work; and except for similar reasons.

(3) Giving free copies to advertisers, except not more than one copy each for checking purposes.

(4) Accepting returns from news dealers of unsold papers.

(5) Sending free copies for the purpose of stimulating circulation or advertising, except upon application and except to a limit of 1 per cent of circulation.

(6) Sending free copies in exchange for other publications.

(7) Selling at an exceedingly low or nominal subscription rate.

(8) Selling to subscribers below published subscription rate, except in clubbing with other periodicals, when the price should not be less than 75 per cent of the sum of published prices.

(9) Selling premiums with periodicals unless a price is put upon the premium for sale separately, and the combined price is at least 75 per cent of the sum of the individual prices.

A statement will be required November 1, 1918, as to how many of these practices have been discontinued.

The urgent necessity of economizing in the use of paper in every possible way can not be too strongly emphasized, and each publisher should carefully:

Restrict the overruns which are printed for files, office copies, etc.

Scrutinize the pressroom wastes.

Consider the possibility of reducing the size of the type and the margins.

Procure, as far as possible, paper and all other materials from the nearest available source of supply, provided it is consistent with price, quality, and service.

If it is possible for publishers to reduce their tonnage of paper below the allotted amount, it is their patriotic duty to do so.

The War Industries Board, through the pulp and paper section, announces regulations for the control of paper used in the production of all periodicals entered at the Post Office Department as second-class mail matter, with the exception of newspapers and agricultural publications, which are made the subject of special regulations.

These regulations, which cover magazines generally, are made effective for weekly periodicals September 15 and for bi-monthlies and quarterlies which are put on sale subsequent to October 2. Inability to comply with the regulations because of mechanical reasons by the dates proposed must be set forth in letters to be filed with Thomas E. Donnelley, chief of the pulp and paper section.

The regulations fix the weights of paper that may be used by periodicals, while allowing consumption of stocks of heavier paper on hand; suggest specific methods for curtailment in tonnage from that use last year and add an arbitrary reduction of 10 per cent on average tonnage, with no guaranty of adequate supply under the reduced tonnage; suggest discontinuance of many alleged wasteful practices and also to selling of advertising with a guaranty of circulation, requiring a rebate if circulation falls below the guaranteed amount.

The regulations follow:

To publishers of all periodicals except newspapers and agricultural publications:

The priority board of the War Industries Board has listed paper mills as an essential industry and has rated them in fourth class for priority for coal on the distinct understanding that all wasteful uses of paper shall be eliminated and the necessary use be curtailed to the minimum.

Paper mills will be put upon the priority list for coal, conditioned upon their signing a pledge that they will furnish no paper to any consumer who will not also sign a pledge in duplicate that he will exercise the greatest possible economy in the use of paper and will observe all rules and regulations of the Conservation Division and of the Pulp and Paper Section of the War Industries Board.

The following regulations have been made by the Pulp and Paper Section of the War Industries Board for the control of paper used in the production of all periodicals entered as second-class matter, with the exception of newspapers and agricultural publications.

The following regulations shall be effective for weekly periodicals September 15, 1918; for bi-monthlies and quarterlies which are put on sale subsequent to October 2, 1918. If for mechanical reasons it is impossible to put these regulations into effect on the above dates, a concise statement of reasons must be sent by letter to this office as soon as possible.

WEIGHTS OF PAPER

No periodical shall use in its production any paper heavier than the following basis:

News	24x36— 36
Machine finish	25x38— 45
Super calendered for body	25x38— 50
Super calendered for color work	25x38— 70
Coated for body or inserts	25x38— 70
Cover, only of sufficient weight to properly protect publication and not to exceed:
Coated	25x38—100
Super	25x38— 90

All stocks on hand heavier than the above weights may be used and computed as of the above weights in figuring the tonnage allowed in the following regulations.

If any publisher desires to substitute supercalendered for coated, or news for super or machine finish, the use of heavier weights than the above schedule will be considered by this office.

Each publisher shall figure the total tonnage he would have used during the year July 1, 1917, to June 30, 1918, inclusive, had he used body and insert paper of the above weights and cover paper of the weight he actually used, provided it did not weigh more than 100 pounds for coated and 90 pounds for supercalendered. From this amount he will deduct one-half of the tonnage represented by items 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 of the suggestions printed on the previous page. He will be allowed hereafter this last amount less 10 per cent as his average tonnage.

This saving may be accomplished by a further reduction in weight, by cutting the number of pages, curtailment of circulation, or in any other way the publisher chooses, and the tonnage may be used for reading matter, advertisements, or circulation as the publisher chooses.

This tonnage will be apportioned by issue, but any publisher may use more or less than the average tonnage in any one issue, provided the total tonnage in any six months is not exceeded.

Any publisher whose circulation has increased by legitimate methods in an unusual amount over the average circulation for the year July 1, 1917, to June 30, 1918, may present his case for special consideration.

ADDITIONAL REGULATIONS

Discontinue selling advertising with a guaranty of circulation requiring a rebate if circulation falls below guaranteed amount.

Because of the absolute necessity of curtailing the use of paper, no new publications may be established during the period of the war unless it can be shown that such publication is an absolute necessity.

BOOKS ON FOREIGN LANGUAGES IMPORTANT IN AFTER-THE-WAR TRADE

The question of foreign languages was thought of such importance in Great Britain that a committee was appointed by the Prime Minister to inquire into the position of Modern Languages in the Educational System of Great Britain. Stanley Leathes, a Civil Service commissioner, and one of the editors of the Cambridge Modern History, was in charge.

Commenting on the report of this committee the Evening Sun says:

The Leathes committee does well to emphasize the special need of foreign languages under the new conditions that will prevail after the war. "Keen emulation will then be encountered; lost ground must be recovered; new openings must be found; in countries where we felt secure we shall find our footing precarious. So large is the part of an industrial product marketed abroad, so great is our capital invested in foreign countries, so universal was our carrying trade, so extensive are our financial transactions and influence and the power of our credit, that any impediment to our success will react not only on those firms directly interested in foreign markets, but also on the prosperity of the whole country." And the requirements of post-bellum business will include not merely a more extensive and thoro study of foreign languages, but other studies to which the knowledge of the language is the key—an intimate acquaintance with the character, the prejudices, the ways of thought, the economic conditions and capacities, of the foreign peoples themselves.

Several helpful paragraphs in the report are devoted to a discussion of the comparative importance of the various foreign languages from the business point of view.

French is placed first, for practical as well as cultural purposes.

The Leathes committee, of course, gives no countenance to the cut-off-your-nose-to-spite-your-face policy of banishing the German language from the schools. "It will in any case," they say, "be impossible to oust the use of German in commerce, even for our own purposes at home, apart from any question of competition in neutral countries. The mere settlement of pre-war accounts with Germany will be a long and difficult matter. If we are not ourselves able to supply men who have sufficient knowledge of German to conduct the necessary correspondence, strong incentive will be offered to revert to the old practice of employing qualified German clerks for the purpose. This is only one of many considerations which lead us to the conclusion that it is of essential importance to the nation that the study of the German language should be not only maintained but extended.

Of the remaining European languages, Spanish is declared to be of principal commercial importance, owing to the size and growing wealth of the Spanish-speaking communities of Central and South America. Italian is of value, rather because of Italy's contribution to European civilization than from any practical assistance it gives to the present-day business man.

"Unless the worst should happen," Russia should offer a great opening, which can only be used by a nation which has studied, as well as the language of Russia, her social anatomy, the character of her people, her geography, and her economic conditions and capacities. The evidence presented to the committee leads it to the conclusion that the difficulties of the Russian language are often exaggerated.

Portuguese is important not only on account of business relations with Portugal itself, but partly because of the present achievements and future prospects of enterprise in Brazil, and to some extent because of the Portuguese colonies in Africa.

The Scandinavian and Dutch languages come perhaps next in value, and modern Greek deserves attention as a commercial medium for the whole region of the Levant. Then there are many of the Oriental languages, the study of which has lately been notably promoted by the establishment of the London School of Oriental Studies.

POSSIBILITIES OF ESPERANTO.

The possibility of fruitful results from the development of artificial languages has not been ignored by the Leathes committee, which discusses, briefly but to the point, the claims that have been put forward on behalf of Esperanto would provide for those who have not the time or the ability to acquire a natural language some part of the logical discipline which language study affords, and that, if taught in elementary schools, it would form a useful basis for the study of natural languages in after years, it registers a non-committal verdict, on the ground of the lack of sufficient experiments to warrant a definite conclusion. It points out that, before Esperanto can be of much service in commerce, there will need to be a much more extended knowledge and use of the language, and it will have to be provided with a technical vocabulary precise and highly developed in many fields.

One of the specific recommendations of the Leathes committee is that there should be set up in London an institution, similar in purpose to the School of Oriental Studies, to organize and facilitate the study of the greatest possible number of European tongues. There should also be established, in some of the great commercial cities, provincial schools of the same type for the languages that have special value for the commerce of the district. Suggestions are offered as to the best methods of providing opportunities of language study—in evening as well as day classes—for young men and women who have already entered a business course. In the opinion of the committee, instruction in the technical vocabulary of trade and commerce is likely to be more effective for those who are already engaged in business and are acquainted to some degree with the material and the operations dealt with, than for pupils in schools to whom such details can hardly be made sufficiently real. But the most important reform of all is the laying of a more substantial foundation during the school period. "The great obstacle to language study, ancient, and modern," says the committee, "is the discouragement which results from its unsuccessful pursuit at school. When schools have learned to concentrate their efforts on fewer languages, and refuse to organize failure in three or more, the desire to learn other tongues than our own will be much more common than it has been hitherto. That desire may come from individual need, or the expectation of profit, or the wish for information; it may even be born of mere curiosity; but where it exists it will not infrequently redound to the public advantage."

PUBLISHERS WARNED AGAINST ACCEPTING SOLDIERS' MSS.

Publishers who have manuscripts offered to them by men in the military service should first be sure that the authors have received the War Department's authorization to have the manuscript published.

The following letter on this point is self-explanatory:

WAR DEPARTMENT
Washington.
August 23, 1918.

Editor PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY:

Paragraph IV, General Order, No. 168, War Department, 1917, forbids the publication by members of the military service of any matter without previously submitting it to the War Department for approval.

In order to obviate financial loss to the publishing firm due to the writer being ordered to withdraw the publication completely from the market, it is recommended that before undertaking any publication work for an individual in the military service, you first assure yourself that he has been authorized by the War Department to publish it.

Very respectfully,
F. W. LEWIS,
Adjutant General.

What Book Advertisement Appeals to the Dealer?

We want to see discussion on this subject. It is a puzzling one. It is an important one. Book ad. copy appearing in trade papers is not the same problem as that for soap or automobiles. Some experts say that publishers do it poorly. The publishers' publicity men say that the outside expert does not know the book problem. The book-trade would be interested in constructive criticism from the retailer.

We Offer Prizes of $50 and $25 for the two best short comments on the publishers' display advertisements appearing in the Publishers' Weekly from Sept. 14th to Nov. 16th inclusive, ten numbers, selecting the 3 best ads. and telling why they would get the attention of the bookseller. The comments will be judged by a competent committee. The contest is open to anyone in the buying or selling end of a retail bookstore. If you are interested in booktrade problems, help us with your ideas.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY

INTERPRETING THE PAPER PLEDGE

We print herewith a copy of the pledge that publishers must sign before making contracts with the paper mills. Paper restriction is based on the government's control of the coal supply. The mills will be allowed coal as producers of essentials only for such purposes as the War Industries Board approves. This means the signing of a pledge by each purchaser stating that he will carry out the demands put upon his industry. The publisher cannot resell his paper without getting a similar pledge from the purchaser, but when the paper has been converted into books the publisher can sell without further retraint or without any pledge or contract with the consumer.

There was some little doubt as to the exact meaning of the pledge as worded, but this has been cleared by the correspondence given below between Frederick A. Stokes & Co. and Thos. E. Donnelley, Chief of the Pulp and Paper Section of the War Industries Board.

THE CONSUMER'S PAPER PLEDGE

The undersigned hereby pledges itself: (1) To co-operate with the Conservation Division and the Pulp and Paper Section of the War Industries Board to economize in the use of pulp, paper, printing ink and printers' rollers and all products manufactured therefrom, and in the use of transportation facilities; (2) To cause and procure others, so far as lies within its power, to exercise all possible economy and conservation in the use of such products; (3) Not to furnish such products to any dealer for resale or to any consumer for us until such dealer or consumer shall first pledge in writing its co-operation with the undersigned in carrying out the letter and spirit of this pledge, or thereafter should such dealer or consumer fail so to co-operate.

REQUEST FOR INTERPRETATION

August 28, 1918.

Mr. Thomas E. Donnelley,
Chief Pulp and Paper Section,
War Industries Board,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Donnelley:

The form of pledge submitted to us by the paper makers, of which a copy as received from the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Company is enclosed herewith, if strictly interpreted would require publishers, wholesale jobbers, etc., selling books to retail stores or individuals to secure a pledge in writing from each person to whom sale is made. Since this is obviously not the intention of the pledge, would it not be better to make the intention entirely clear in one or two ways: (a) Inserting after the word '.product" in No. 3, "excepting fully manufactured publications"; or (b) add at the end of the pledge the following: "It is understood that publishers, and wholesale and retail booksellers may sell fully manufactured publications without first requiring a pledge in writing from the purchaser."

Very truly yours,
FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY,
By Wm. A. Morrow.

Mr. Wm. Morrow,
c/o F. A. Stokes & Co.,

New York City.

My dear Sir:

Replying to your letter of August twenty-eighth, you are correct in assuming that we do not expect publishers to take pledges from their customers. Could you not in some way get this statement published in your trade publication. We will circularize the trade.

Very truly yours,
THOMAS E. DONNELLEY,

BOOK REPAIR AND RESTORATION

Mitchell S. Buch has prepared a little volume of practical value to the bibliophile who loves to "fuss" over his old books and wants to restore them thru his own efforts, under the title of "Book Repair & Restoration." It includes a translation of parts of Bonnerdart's scarce "Essay on the Restoration of Prints and Books" printed in Paris in 1858. The various chapters treat on General Restoration, Removing Stains, Rebacking, Repairing Old Bindings, and Rebinding, with others on Bookshelves, on Book Buying, and on the Greek and Latin Classics. It is full of meat for the rare book collector, be he bookkeeper or a private buyer, and will interest all librarians who have rarities in their care. It is from the press of Nicholas L. Brown of Philadelphia.

THOSE A. L. A. BOOKMARKS

Retailers are now receiving from several publishers new fiction into which have been inserted the War Service Bookmarks as described and reproduced in the August 10th PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. These ought to be a very real help in selling new fiction and the dealer should make the most of them. Word comes from Washington that booksellers can get supplies of them gratis for their own selling campaigns by writing to the Library War Service, Care The Library of Congress, Washington, D. C. Here is an unusual opportunity to connect booksales with real war needs. The book plate will remind the prospective purchasers that by buying a volume of new fiction he can give himself pleasure and then give pleasure to a score of boys who would read that book in camp and hospital.

MAKING GOOD IN WAR TIME

Figuring Retail Profits

How many booksellers know how to mark their goods so as to make a certain percentage of profit? Geyer's Stationer says that a well known national advertiser put this problem to the retailers of the nation. Of thousands who answered 75% were incorrect.

If you buy an article at $1 and the cost of doing business is 22 per cent, what must your selling price be to make a clear profit of 10 per cent? $1 cost, plus 22c cost of doing business, is $1.22. Ten per cent of that is 12c. The answer is $1.34, and very easy to get. No. That is unfortunately the wrong answer entirely.

At the end of the year, do you go over your invoices and figure your cost of doing business on the amount of money you have spent for goods, or do you base it on the total sales for the year? The total sales, of course.

The selling price represents 100 per cent, or the basis upon which you figure.

A leading retailer figures his profit in this way:

An article cost $1, at wholesale. We want to make a clear profit of 10 per cent and our cost of doing business is 22 per cent. This makes a total of 32 per cent. Deduct this from 100 and we have a remainder of 68 per cent. 68 per cent represents the wholesale cost, 22 per cent is the cost of doing business, and 10 per cent the profit. Since 68 per cent is the cost, 68 per cent is $1, and we divide $1 by 68. Our answer is 1.47 and $1.47 represents the desired rate of profit.

Let's prove the answer. The cost of doing business, based on the selling price, would not be 22 cents in this case but 22 per cent of $1.47, or 32 cents. We find, then, that the item has cost $1.32 and a profit of 15 cents is made when the selling price is $1.47. Fifteen cents is 10 per cent profit (in round figures) of $1.47.

But before a writer can figure his profits, he must know what it costs him to do business. The writer of the article speaks of going into a store in the suburbs of St. Louis and asking the owner of the place, whom he knew, what it cost him to do business?

"Why," he said, "it doesn't cost me anything. You see, I own this building and my son helps me, so I have no payroll and no rent. The only expense I have is for my light and heat."

That looked well. "But," suggested the writer, "if you were not occupying this building, what could you rent it for?"

"Twenty-seven, fifty."

"All right, let's put that down. Now, if you were doing this work for someone else, how much would you charge for it?"

"Well, you see, I'm getting old and I am not worth much to anybody else. Still, I suppose I could get $40 or $50 a month."

"Well, call it $50. And what could the boy get, working for somebody else?"

"I reckon he could get a dollar a day."

So they figured in a rough way his rent, payroll, lights, insurance, interest on his money, heat and so on and figured that he had a monthly expense of approximately $95. His sales were $20 a day, or $520 a month. His cost of doing business, then, was 18 per cent of his gross profits. He had thought he was making a profit of 50 per cent, when he really was making about 15 per cent. He said that he had often wondered why it was, with the profit he presumed he was making, that he never got ahead.

Too many merchants do not figure their own time, or their own investment worth anything. Fix your prices so that you will make a profit and know what profit you are making.

Binding of Bibles

Do you know the styles of leather used for binding Bibles?

A little folder from the Oxford Press gives them as follows:

French Morocco is sheepskin and is used for binding medium-priced Bibles. Has fair wearing qualities.

Alaska Seal is cowhide, has a seal or rough grain and wears very well.

Persian Morocco is a fine grain goat skin of very good wearing qualities.

Real Morocco is a high grade goat-skin and is a strong durable leather that can be relied upon to give complete satisfaction. Bibles bound in this leather may be used for years without showing any sign of wear.

Levant Morocco is also of goat-skin, made into leather by processes for which France enjoys a high reputation.

Sealskin is both handsome and durable. Only the finest grade Bibles are bound in it.

Opening New Books

Why not put the following instructions on opening books on a little book-mark with an advertisement of your stock at the end?

How to Open a Book

Hold the book with its back on a smooth or covered table; let the front cover down, then the other, holding the leaves in one hand while you open a few leaves at the back, then a few at the front, and so on, alternately opening back and front, gently pressing open the sections till you reach the centre of the volume. Do this three or four times and you will obtain the best results.

Making Sure That Circulars Are Kept

A Kentucky firm, according to the August System, has a plan which really keeps its advertisments from being thrown away. The boy who gives the prospective customer a couple of advertising blotters calls his attention to the ease with which they can be folded and carried in the pocket. The suggestion is often followed, and many advertisements kept which might otherwise be left behind.

AMONG THE PUBLISHERS

JEFFERY FARNOL in his new story has left his New York background to return to the period of "The Broad Highway." Those who enjoyed his earlier volumes and who love fresh, vigorous romance far removed from events of today should enjoy this new book—"Our Admirable Betty" (Little, Brown).

THE THIRD VOLUME of the new series of Valentine's Manual, by Henry Collins Brown, editor and publisher, will make its appearance in November. The price has been advanced to $15.00 for full leather; $10.00, half leather, and cloth, $7.50.

MR. KNOPF has had two letters recently from the great Russian author, Kropotkin. Think of anybody telling us so much, and then telling us not a word of what they said —this in the face of a world hungry for real news of Russia!

THE EFFECTS OF THE WAR upon those who stay, as well as those who go is the theme of "The War Eagle" by W. J. Dawson (John Lane). The New York magazine editor, the millionaire, the old Civil War veteran, the mother whose son has enlisted and the boy who goes, form the group of characters for this war story.

THE SECRET SERVICE yields much material for romance in these days. "The Golden Bough," George Gibbs' new novel (Appleton), is one of the stories built around a secret service plot. It is said to be "a whirlwind adventure novel" with a young American soldier for hero, diabolical Huns for villains, and thrills to order.

DO YOU REMEMBER when everybody used to say, "Oh, progress is all right and I believe in it, but we'll never really fly—not for two hundred years yet, anyhow." Yes, I know everybody denies that he himself ever said it. Still, we haven't forgotten the wonder and thrill of knowing that people actually were flying. Stories such as "Guynemer the Ace of Aces" by Jacques Mortane (Moffat, Yard) help remind us of the real fairy tale come true in our time.

THE APPEARANCE of a book by Thorstein Veblen is always one of the literary events of the year in which it occurs. Veblen holds, in political theory, the position that Emerson ascribed to Plato in philosophy. Very few of us read Plato but we all owe our education to him, for he teaches our teachers. Veblen's mind is more like the X-ray than any other thing. When once you have looked with him into the very center of social and political customs nothing can erase the picture from your mind. Those who like to keep up to date in reading usually do not read Veblen. He is about fifteen years ahead of the date. But, considering the present rush of events, it might be well to read him, so as to be prepared if the present has a telescope wreck with the future in about fifteen minutes, "Higher Learning in America" (Huebsch).

CHILDREN ESPECIALLY, tho not children only, like to see an old friend appear in a new book. When that friend is Uncle Remus himself one can imagine the delight of the small readers. Sherlock Holmes was persuaded to reappear once more because of the war and Uncle Remus has followed his example in "Uncle Remus Returns" by Joel Chandler Harris (Houghton Mifflin).

A HISTORICAL NOVEL must deal in noblemen instead of just folks, of course, and it is certainly more romantic so. "The Third Estate" by Marjorie Bowen (Dutton) is said to be a good romantic tale with the most important thing of all, an interesting villian.

A PLEASANT LITTLE story illustrating the essential friendliness with which book trade rivalry can be carried on comes from Robert J. Shores.

He was called upon the telephone one day by the Britton Publishing Company and told of a story which Britton liked. His own list was full, would Shores like it? Yes. The book proved to be "American Pep," which Shores is advertising so widely. Why isn't there more of this sort of friendly rivalry?

A PERFECT LADY, English, aged fourteen, went to France a hundred years ago, and wrote a diary about it. "The Diary of a Girl in France in 1821," by Mary Browne (Dutton), is amusing and interesting in these days when so many are going to a very different France on a very different errand.

DESPITE the many difficulties in these times attending the production of so big a book, The Publishers' Trade List Annual for 1918 makes its appearance on time. This year its value to bookmen is emphasized in the many price changes in publishers' lists, which render last year's catalogs practically valueless.

LAIRD & LEE, INC., of Chicago, announce that Mr. S. C. Spalding has recently joined them as publication manager. Mr. Spalding was at one time in charge of the Advertising Copy and Service Department of Cosmopolitan, Motor and the other Hearst magazines. For the last year he has been editing Business Success and the Business Philosopher for Arthur Frederick Sheldon. He has written much along widely different lines and therefore brings to his new position the literary viewpoint, as well as that of the advertising man and the salesman.

PAPER

Book Publishers Are Satisfied With Paper Ruling

Several book publishers expressed satisfaction with the new ruling of the Government reducing the number of new titles of books to be manufactured in this country after October 1. Most of the satisfaction, however, came from the fact that the regulations were general, limiting all publishers alike, and not aimed at any particular part of the trade.

"It seems to be just and reasonable," said Roland Holt, of the publishing house of Henry Holt & Co., "and the ruling has not been imposed without consulting those most affected. Of course, like other businesses, we wish we didn't have the war to deal with. But what the Government has done appears workable. One good feature of it is that the disadvantage it puts one firm to, has to be met by all the others, too. There is no discrimination, so there is no real jolt to regular competition."

Edward C. Marsh, vice-president of the Macmillan Company, said that altho the new regulations were going to be an added burden to the publishers, the Macmillan Co. would conscientiously adhere to the limits set down without question.

The Century Company admitted that the reduction which the Government requires on all trade books, copyright reprints, toy books, juvenile, and non-copyright books would reduce their yearly output to about seventy-five publications, and added that they were busy now reconsidering their fall output in order to make it conform to the specified allotment.

Hugh R. Conyngton, of the Ronald Press, 20 Vesey Street, which publishes books on trades and technical, legal and financial subjects, said his firm had as yet received no formal word from the Federal Paper Commission reducing their output.

"Trade books, the first on the list," said Mr. Conyngton, "may be understood to mean such books as deal with trade subjects such as our publications, or, what is more likely, the large number of general publications which are distributed thru the retail trade. If it means the first, then it strikes us severely, and I do not think quite with reason, since our publications are the sort of books which instruct new men just entering into new trades what to do and how to do it. The great number of men drawn into Government service has increased the number of novices in trade to a great degree. Trade books, I think, however, are meant to include books distributed thru the retail trade here."

The restrictions which limit the publication of these different classes of books direct that, beginning October 1, there shall be a 25 per cent reduction, based on the average output of the three years from July 1, 1915, to June 30 last. The regulations except books of research, published under subsidy, and war-service books published for the United States or Allied Governments, under subsidy.

Facts On Making Paper

Pulp wood costs 102 per cent more than prior to 1910, 49 per cent more than in 1915, 26 per cent more than last year and the cost is increasing every month.

The International Paper Company's pay roll, since the award by the War Labor Board, is running at the rate of at least $8,148,196 a year, against $3,894,072 in 1915; the labor cost per ton of paper is $17.33 against $8.68 in 1915, and the annual production per employe has fallen from 80.05 tons in 1915 to the rate of 65.79 tons at this writing.

Of the four tons of material sent to the mill for every ton of paper shipped out, the freight charges on pulp wood by rail have increased 48 per cent, on coal 31 per cent, and on other commodities like sulphur, lime, pulp and general supplies, over 40 per cent.

Since the high schedules of 1915, already elevated by war conditions, the average cost of eighteen different articles and commodities used in the manufacture of paper has risen 133.66 per cent. The International Paper Company's total bill for supplies and materials, outside of pulp wood, has increased $2,540,874 a year, or over $5 per ton of paper produced.

No other industry, save the making of powder and ammunition, faces such fortuitous, unpreventable and uninsurable hazards. For the ten years ending January 1, 1918, these losses totalled $3,340,892, or $334,089 a year. Risks have been enormously increased by the war's disorganization of labor and transportation, which can be met only by a liberal reserve item as a part of admitted and legitimate manufacting cost.

Proposed Russian Paper Mill

The All-Russian Union of Consumers' Societies, with head offices at Moscow, intends to build a large paper and pulp mill some where on the Murman Peninsula, if a place can be found with an adequate supply of timber and water-power for at least 30,000 horsepower, and within a reasonable distance of the Murman Railroad, according to the U. S. Consul at Archangel. The chief and the assistant consulting engineers of the union are now in the region of the Murman Railroad and the port of Murmansk (Kola) to seek a location for the proposed mill. The chief engineer plans to go to the United States to try to interest American capital in the enterprise. The Union sells annually over 36,000 short tons of various sorts of paper. The object of the proposed factory is to supply this demand of the union itself and produce at the same time 72,000 to 90,000 tons of cellulose, wood pulp, or even paper, for sale abroad in order to assure the Union of foreign exchange with which to purchase merchandise abroad.

My dear Mr. Melcher:

Miss Graham deserves, even if she has not already received the thanks of all booksellers in the country. It piqued and provoked me to think that after fifteen years in the book business there was so much I didn't know or had forgotten about bookselling when I read the first part of Miss Graham's course in the P. W. But I was also inspired to make amends for the future and so I doubt if any of our assistants looked for the P. W. numbers containing the first half of the course with more eagerness than I did.

I'm enclosing herewith a list of names of our people to whom I wish you would send the P. W. from the second number of September to the last number of April, as per your announcement for the continuation of the bookselling course and if there is anything I can do or say to impress upon the book-trade the advantage of following Miss Graham closely through the next few months or of the advisability of entering subscriptions to the P. W. for the series for all members of the staff, call on me.

Very truly yours,

THE MOST EXCITING OCCUPATION IN THE WORLD

There are still some people left in the world who give full credit to physical stimuli, but who regard accessibility to mental stimulus as the mark of a "blue stocking," "remote from life." They should be commended to an essay by Christopher Morley, "Parnassus at Home," appearing in the September Bookman, wherein that prince of booksellers, Roger Mifflin, remarks:

"Living in the bookshop is like living in a warehouse of explosives. Those shelves are ranked with the most furious combustibles in the world—the brains of men. I can spend a rainy afternoon reading, and my mind works itself up to such a passion and anxiety over mortal problems as almost unmans me. It is terribly nerve-racking. Surround a man with good books—would you wonder at his getting excited?

OBITUARY

LEE R. MATLICK, formerly of the firm of Graham & Matlack, publishers, died at his home in Philadelphia on August 21st in his forty-sixth year.

Mr. Matlack started in the book business with Porter & Coates, afterwards joining with J. B. Lippincott & Company, and then with Henry Altemus Company. Ten years ago he became the chief salesman for Hurst & Company, and in 1912 started with Charles E. Graham in a new publishing business under the name of Graham & Matlack. He was widely known among the booksellers thruout the country as an ideal salesman. Two years age he gave up the book business to engage stationery specialties.

In Bulungan, a section of Borneo, there is constant trouble because of disturbances on the part of the natives and the men sent by the Dutch government as overseers usually meet death. Peter Gross, an American, thinks he understands the situation and accepts the position of resident. Koyala, called Argus Pheasant, daughter of a French trader and a native woman, because of her birth fiercely hates the white people, and it is she who is largely responsible for the condition of affairs in Bulungan. Peter Gross meets many perilous situations, falls into the hands of the Chinaman, Ah Sing, who plays an important part in the story, and also encounters the treachery of Koyala. In the end he wins her over and the outlook for the future is promising.

One year, postage prepaid in the United States, $5.00; foreign, $6.00.

Single copies, 10 cents. Educational Number, in leatherette, 50 cents, Christmas Bookshelf, 25 cents.

Advertising Rates.

Front section (full pages only)	$35.00
(Back section, unspecified position)
One page	30 00
Half page	17 00
Quarter page	9 00
Eighth page	5 00
One-sixteenth page	2 50

The above rates are for unspecified positions. Special rates for preferred positions (full pages only).

Higher rates are charged for the Summer Reading, Educational Number and Christmas Bookshelf, and for the monthly Book Review supplement sections.

Advertising copy should reach us Tuesday noon—earlier if proof is desired out-of-town. Forms close Thursday night.

Under the headings of "BOOKS WANTED" and "BOOKS FOR SALE" book-trade subscribers are given under their own names five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertising for specified books, not more than one title to the line, in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding one hundred lines a year, a maximum of fifty lines under "Books Wanted" and fifty lines under "Books for Sale," and if over five lines are sent for either department in only one issue, or fifty lines for each department within the calendar year, the excess is at ten cents a line. Bills for this service will be rendered monthly. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withholding the privileges of advertising should occasion arise, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

"Books Wanted" must be designated by actual title, not by "any."

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Under "HELP WANTED" or for other small undisplayed advertisements, the charge is 15 cents a nonpareil line. No reduction for repeated matter. Count seven words to the line.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

FORTY-SIXTH 1918 YEAR OF ISSUE

"No bookseller, even the humblest, if he knows his business can afford to be without the 'Publishers' Trade List Annual,' often spoken of as 'the big catalogue book,' which contains the price lists of all the publishers of importance in the country."—The Newsdealer.

"The man who first spoke of the 'Publishers' Trade List Annual,' as the 'Bible of the book trade' uttered a fitting phrase but used a smile that is open to at least one criticism. If the holy book was as often consulted by the public in proportion as the Trade List is by the bookseller the cry that it is a 'neglected book' would never be heard, for in every shop and in every public library this familiar 'jumbo' in pebbled green is in constant daily use."
—Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.

"It sometimes happens, we know, that a dealer in a fit of misdirected economy will try to get along with his last year's Annual, but the experiment soon becomes an aggravation, for he quickly finds out that he cannot afford to have his bibliographical equipment a whole year behindhand."
The Publisher and Retailer.

Keep Your Liberty Bonds

HOLD to that bond. You invested to help send the boys across. They are over now, at grips with the German monster. You expect them to hold on—hold on till the last vestige of autocracy is crushed out of him. Then you, too, must hold on—must keep your enlisted dollars invested on the fighting line.

It isn't the hooray of a campaign that wins a war. It's the will to hang on, to make sacrifice today, that tomorrow may bring victory.

And your investment. Those bonds are the safest investment you ever made. Don't be lured into exchanging them for the "securities" of some suave get-rich-quick operator. Big returns may be promised but the bigger the promised returns the bigger the risk.

If you have to have money, take your bond to any bank and use it as collateral for a loan. There is no security the banker would rather have—nothing on which he will lend more willingly.

Don't use bonds to buy merchandise. The average merchant, accepting your bond in trade, sells them immediately, thus tending to lower their market price and taking away from the buyer of your bond the ability to lend a corresponding amount of money to his Government. Liberty Bonds are meant to help your country at War; are meant for investment and to provide an incentive for saving and a provision for the rainy day.

Hold fast to your Liberty Bonds. Hold fast for the sake of the boys "Over There." Hold fast because it is good business.

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in AUGUST, 1918

This Reference List includes and classifies all books entered in the annotated Weekly Record during the past month, together with additional titles not therein listed, covering law and medicine, many government documents, university publications, pamphlets, and books of limited character. All works are here entered under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in CAPS and SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics. Under subject entries asterisks () designate books previously entered in the Weekly Record, in most cases with descriptive annotation.*

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in caps, Q, O, D, etc.; for books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, 12°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire published output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i. e., GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religious denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.

An Announcement

TWO of our important books, for Fall publication, were too late to be included in our Fall Catalogue. Each is pre-eminent in its field, and will meet with a great demand. It will be well worth your while to give them your consideration.

They are:

The Eyes of Asia

By RUDYARD KIPLING

This is a collection of letters purporting to have been written by an East Indian trooper to his people at home. It breathes the spirit of India, —calm, deep-thinking, and fearless.

In it a wounded Indian trooper in the army of his mother country pictures to his native friends his experiences on the battle line and in the convalescent camp.

It has all the atmosphere and color of India which Mr. Kipling has made his own. "Kipling in the maturity of his great talent" is the Kipling of old.

Everyone who has longed for a new Kipling book of India, touching his old Indian chord, will be interested.

The Future of German Industrial Exports

By S. HERZOG

This book, written by a German engineer of wide repute, was never ended for publication outside of Germany.

The author, realizing the necessity of "camouflaging" German products to obliterate signs of their origin, lays out in a most painstaking and crafty way schemes by which Germany can retrieve her trade after the war.

Herzog shows the same ruthless attitude toward trade that Bernhardi showed toward human life,—German attitude.

"'Imperial State Ownership of the Individual' would be a more appropriate title for this exposition of German ambitions and intentions in the field of the peaceful daily business life of the world."

Every person interested in the trade of the world should read this book.
